Instructions For Completing Forms UP-1 and UP-2

WHO MUST REPORT?

All businesses, whether in Idaho or another state, must report any unclaimed property that is due to owners with a last known address in Idaho. This also applies to nonprofit organizations and government agencies (except the federal government).

WHAT IS "DUE DILIGENCE?"

Idaho's unclaimed property law requires businesses to send written notices to owners who have unclaimed property valued at more than $50. You must send these notices, which are often called Due Diligence Letters, no more than 120 days before you file an unclaimed property report. If you have evidence that the last known address for the owner is not valid and you can't find a forwarding address, the property is considered unclaimed, and you must report it to the state. If an owner responds to your letter, you can return the property to the owner and remove it from your list of unclaimed property.

WHAT SHOULD I REPORT?

If the owner's last known address is in Idaho: You should report all property valued at more than $50 that is abandoned and any security that wasn't delivered after the date the owner should have received it or was entitled to claim it. (See the List of Property Type Codes/Dormancy Periods for examples of property you should report and the holding period for those property types.)

Idaho is the only state that exempts property valued at $50 or less from being reported. You can report this property voluntarily, but it isn't required.

If the owner's last known address is in another state or foreign country, or your business is incorporated in another state: You must report all property, including property valued at $50 or less.

WHEN SHOULD I REPORT?

You must report the property and send payment for it by November 1 of each year for the reporting period beginning July 1 and ending June 30.

If you can't meet the deadline, you can apply for an extension. See Extension Requests to review the extension requirements. The Unclaimed Property Administrator must receive your written request for an extension by October 1.
